The Department of Human Development and Family Studies is pleased to announce

Developmental & Family Sciences Advanced Research Design & Methods Graduate Certificate

This graduate certificate will provide graduate students in the human and family service, education, and mental health fields a greater understanding of the best practices in research design, methods, and analytic strategies.

Courses and Seminars: 15 Credits

Required (choose one or both):

- HDFS 503/505 Quantitative Research Methods & Application of Quantitative Research Methods, 6cr (spring)
- HDFS 504 Qualitative Research Methods, 3cr (fall)

Choose remaining credits from the following courses:

- HDFS 585 Program Evaluation, 3cr (spring, odd years)
- HDFS 603 Advanced Quantitative Methods, 3cr (spring)
- HDFS 604 Advanced Qualitative Methods, 3cr (spring)
- HDFS 605 Multi-level Modeling, 3cr (fall, odd years)
- HDFS 606 Advanced Structural Equation & Longitudinal Modeling, 3cr (spring, even years)
- HDFS 607 Mixed-Methods & Observational Assessments, 3cr (spring, odd years)
- HDFS 608 Grant writing for Research, 3cr (fall)
- HDFS 616 Seminar (focused on methods only), variable cr (spring, even yrs)